Celebrate Your Dreams Newsletter Issue: October 2018

Celebrate your dreams... especially when they are realized after a long wait!

Ever since the tragic death of Terry Stephens, in losing his battle with the cancer on March 28th in the Tour du France of 1981, Terry had dreamt of reaching the summit of Mont Ventoux. In his final wish he had wanted Tom Stephens to race and he was one of the many contenders to be handed the memorial on the final approach of the mountain. Liane and Terry are a wonderful couple of inspiring Fellow Velo couples. For when it was a genuine pleasure to help support their challenge this year on Mont Ventoux.

To celebrate all the events, others may have chosen champagne but, on this day a multi-pack of orange and a pair of Guiness were what they crossed... after a climb that flat, where were we to argue!

So, don't get up on your dreams if ever we needed it, Liane and Terry's team, including Mont Ventoux were a great reminder as to why we followed our own dreams a few years ago with Fellow Velo.
